Explores the independent journalist's views on the environment, the economy, education, democracy, American cities, and the legal system Describes the workings of a computer system, discusses the proper care of a computer, and explains how to fix common computer problems Current applications for bonding and sealing are expensive and time-consuming. Adhesion of Polymers presents a state-of-the-art method for improving bonds and sealing strength between different materials underwater and in the human body. This time- and cost-efficient technology will allow engineers to create or repair stronger seals in underwater pipes, repair ships at sea, even bond and seal tissues in the body. Survival data consist of a single event for each population unit, namely, end of life, which is modeled with a life distribution. However, many applications involve repeated-events data, where a unit may accumulate numerous events over time. This applied book provides practitioners with basic nonparametric methods for such data. Produced by co-founder Nader and director Ditlow for the non-profit Center for Auto Safety, this is a consumer's guide to the purchase, maintenance, and repair of new or used cars, and to the laws that protect purchasers. Motoring unmasks the forces that shape the American driving experience--commercial, aesthetic, cultural, mechanical--as it takes a timely look back at our historically unconditional love of motor travel. Focusing on recreational travel between 1900 and 1960, John A. Jakle and Keith A. Sculle cover dozens of topics related to drivers, cars, and highways and explain how they all converge to uphold that illusory notion of release and rejuvenation we call the "open road." Jakle and Sculle have collaborated on five previous books on the history, culture, and landscape of the American road. Here, with an emphasis on the driver's perspective, they discuss garages and gas stations, roadside tourist attractions, freeways and toll roads, truck stops, bus travel, the rise of the convenience store, and much more. All the while, the authors make us think about aspects of driving that are often taken for granted: how, for instance, the many lodging and food options along our highways reinforce the connection between driving and "freedom" and how, by enabling greater speeds, highway engineers helped to stoke motorists' "blessed fantasy of flight." Although driving originally celebrated freedom and touted a common experience, it has increasingly become a highly regulated, isolated activity. The motive behind America's first embrace of the automobile--individual prerogative--still substantially obscures this reality. "Americans did not have the automobile imposed on them," say the authors. Jakle and Sculle ask why some of the early prophetic warnings about our car culture went unheeded and why the arguments of its promoters resonated so persuasively. Today, the automobile is implicated in any number of environmental, even social, problems. As the wisdom of our dependence on automobile travel has come into serious question, reassessment of how we first became that way is more important than ever. This definitive reference describes the evolutionary basis of ageing and the recent connections between biochemical damage and pathologies--the central theme being DNA errors, their detection and repair. Presents an in-depth study of ageing as a problem of genes and environment, as a loss of systems precision, as increased disease and as a repairable defect. Evaluating the cost of acquiring major pieces of equipment also necessitates costing their life maintenance. Providing coverage of recent advances in this field, this book covers such topics as reliability improvement warranty, computer hardware/software costing, and reliability engineering. This lovely addition to Chax Press' line of chapbooks features Portland poet David Abel's elegiac sequence on love and grief. Written in New York following the 1988 death of Robert Duncan but published in 2006, Abel's poem takes as its point of departure a line from Christopher Marlowe, who writes

"Black is the beauty of the brightest day." From this ambiguous, mournful line, Abel fashions a beautifully spare set of poems that encompass and intertwine concerns both philosophical and quotidian, displaying both sadness and acceptance in the face of death. As he writes, "My heart climbs/like a fish, dumb/and I swallow stones:/love's incomprehension/smoothed by/water."

David Abel, co-curator of the Spare Room reading series, is a poet, editor, bookseller, raga singer, and poker player who moved to Portland in 1997 after stints in New York and Albuquerque.

The U.S. Air Force has recently confronted a host of challenges in its efforts to maintain military readiness. This briefing focuses on the nature of those challenges in an air mobility wing at Travis Air Force Base, California. It concludes that maintainers and aircrews alike have in fact been subjected to myriad pressures, many of them conflicting, and that these pressures have adversely affected overall productivity. Viable solutions to these problems, however, must address all aspects of unit readiness. Software evolution and maintenance. Change management; Impact analysis. System release planning. Corrective maintenance. Adaptive maintenance. Perfective maintenance. Reengineering source code. Software testing. System release and configuration management. Implementing software evolution. Managing software Maintenance. The 1990s have seen a worldwide growth in companies investment in maintenance in terms of labour cost, equipment investment and its application. This text provides engineers with a compendium of maintenance procedures and techniques. Tells the stories of seven girls and women living with obstetric fistula, a devastating childbirth injury rooted in poverty. It paints a portrait of resilience and strength in spite of tremendous personal loss. It is meant to mobilize action to prevent and manage fistula, and to challenge the fundamental inequities threatening the well-being of the poor.
